O apostrophe N E I L L. O'Neill.

Okay, thank you, Mr. O'Neil. Just one moment, please.

Thank you.

Mike?

Linda, good to see you. How's it going?

Fine, how are you?

Oh, I'm good. I'm Good.

Hey, Linda.

Excuse me.

See you later, Linda.

See you later, Mike.

Excuse me, this isn't mine.

That's strange. Oh well, I'll just get you a new one.

Here you go.

Thank you.

You're welcome.

Hi, I'm Mike O'Neill.

Uh, what did you say your name was again?

I'm Mike. Mike O'Neil.

Oh, okay, I'm Bill. Bill Anderson. Nice to meet you, Mike.

Good to meet you too.

Hi. Hello.

Hi, excuse me.

Oh hey, uh, hi, I'm Rachel Stevens. Welcome to the conference.

Hi, Rachel. Good to meet you. And, uh, what do you do?

I um, I have my own business. I'm an interior designer, but I volunteer with the Family History Association. Oh, are you from around here?

Oh no, no, I'm from Chicago.

Chicago.

Yeah.

Nice city.

Thank you.

And, um, what do you do, Evan?

Oh, well, I'm a doctor in a hospital. And, um, family history is really my hobby.

Oh, okay.

Hi.

Oh, hi, nice to meet you.

Hi, I'm Evan Chu.

So you're Evan Chu?

Yes.

And you're Evan Chu also?

No, I'm still Mike O'Neill.

Okay, Evan.

Oh, well, that explains a few things. No, uh, I guess I'm not Mike O'Neill. No, I, I, I am Mike O'Neill. This is just, you know, this is why they don't let me do surgery.
